Perpich English instructor a featured poet in new MIA "conversation"

Sun Yung Shin, English instructor and award-winning Minnesota poet, was invited by the Minneapolis Art Institute to write about a piece of art for its program, MIA Stories. "MIA Stories is the museum beyond the walls, outside the frame, at the lively intersection of life and art. From behind-the-scenes buzz to inspiring connections with current events, it's the museum in conversation." Shin's poem, "명부전-冥府殿 Myeongbujeon, the Hall of the Underworld," was inspired by a work of Korean art "Ksitigarbha and the Ten Kings of Hell," a silk painting on display in gallery 206 at the MIA. Congratulations, Sun Yung!

Winners of the writing competition for Scholastic Arts & Writing Awards

The literary arts students who won keys and honorable mentions in the regional Scholastic awards are:

Gold Key winners:

Bailey Skow and Juliana Lillehei, seniors; and Alana Keiser, junior.

Silver Key winners:

Jozee Becher Juliana Lillehei, seniors; Erika Beal and Ariel Johnson, juniors.

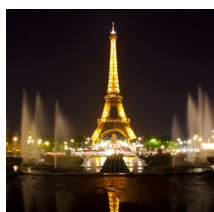

Honorable Mentions:

Jozee Becher and Juliana Lillehei, seniors and juniors Dan Stein, Erika Beal, Alana Keiser and Tali Rose and Sam Daiker, who each won two.

Congratulations to all of these talented writers!

More winners from Scholastic Arts & Writing Awards

In the last newsletter, a couple students were overlooked for their accomplishments in the statewide Scholastic awards. Satya Varghese Mac won a silver key award and Shannon Clancy won an honorable mention. Both students are juniors in media arts. We regret the error.

French exchange student arrives tomorrow

Perpich will be welcoming a French exchange student visitor, Elodie Garoux, who arrives tomorrow and will be here until March 1. She is being hosted by Sophie Deutsch, a junior in media arts who is in the College in the Schools French class. Sophie is among the students who will be traveling to France with the Perpich group in March.

Extensive series of workshops offered through Perpich Arts Integration Project

A series of "Secondary Course Development Workshops" throughout the fall and into the winter introduced the basics of developing a secondary-level course integrating the arts and other subjects to 6th-12th grade teachers interested in integrating the arts into their classes. The workshops were offered in Rochester, Bemidji, Willmar and on the Perpich campus. The workshops kicked off a new arts integration professional development initiative.

News from the guidance counselor

Perpich guidance counselor Lisa Quiring urges students to consider applying for the Pohland Scholars Program, which awards up to 75 scholarships of $2,000 each. Deadline for the application is March 1.

Quiring also wants to remind students and parents of the registration deadlines for the SAT and ACT tests. Registration deadlines for the SAT and SAT subject tests are April 4 for the May 3 test date and May 9 for the June 7 test date. You can register at sat.org/register. The ACT deadlines are March 7 for the April 12 test date and May 9 for the June 14 test date. You can register at www.actstudent.org/start.

2003 Perpich alumni reunion Saturday, Feb. 15
